CHAPTER 19 B-286

2. The total liabilities and equity of the company are the net book worth, or market value of equity, plus the long-term debt, so:

$$\begin{aligned} \text{Total liabilities and equity} &= \text{¥}920,000 + 170,000 \\ \text{Total liabilities and equity} &= \text{¥}1,090,000 \end{aligned}$$

This is also equal to the total assets of the company. Since total assets are the sum of all assets, and cash is an asset, the cash account must be equal to total assets minus all other assets, so:

$$\begin{aligned} \text{Cash} &= \text{¥}1,090,000 - 220,000 - 220,000 \\ \text{Cash} &= \text{¥}650,000 \end{aligned}$$

We have NWC other than cash, so the total NWC is:

$$\begin{aligned} \text{NWC} &= \text{¥}220,000 + 650,000 \\ \text{NWC} &= \text{¥}870,000 \end{aligned}$$

We can find total current assets by using the NWC equation. NWC is equal to:

$$\begin{aligned} \text{NWC} &= \text{CA} - \text{CL} \\ \text{¥}870,000 &= \text{CA} - \text{¥}120,000 \\ \text{CA} &= \text{¥}990,000 \end{aligned}$$
